If You Are Ejected From A Contest

A student, disqualified from a contest for flagrant or unsportsmanlike conduct, is suspended from interscholastic competition for no less than the next competitive event (but not less than one complete game or meet) at the same level of competition as the disqualification. Note: The penalty shall be served in the sport in which the offense occurred. If that sport season is completed, then it shall be served in the next sport or sport season. Art. VII. Sec. 3 – WIAA OFFICIAL HANDBOOK.

Note: (1) The determination as to what constitutes a competitive event is made by determining how the event is listed on a school's schedule. If it is a multiple-school meet, but is only counted as one of the allowable meets, the entire meet is considered to be a competitive event. If it is competition involving more than one actual game, and each individual game is counted as one of the allowable season contests, then each individual game is considered to be a competitive event. Scrimmages are considered practices and not competitive events.

Note: (2) These are examples of the proper interpretation of the rule, however, they are not all inclusive. If an athletic director has questions, relative to a specific interpretation, he/she should call the WIAA office.

Question: A player is ejected from the first game of a Saturday baseball doubleheader. Is he eligible to play in the second game? What about the next scheduled game, which is on Tuesday afternoon? Answer: The player would miss the next competitive event, which would be the second game of the doubleheader. He would be eligible to return for the game on the following Tuesday.

Question: A wrestler is disqualified, for unsportsmanlike conduct, in the first dual match of a wrestling triple dual. Can he return to competition that day? Answer: If a school has scheduled this event as one of the allowable multischool meets, the wrestler would be disqualified for the remainder of this day, plus the next competitive event. If a school has scheduled this competition as separate meets, counting it as more than one meet on their schedule, this wrestler would be able to return following the next dual.

Question: A wrestler is disqualified, for unsportsmanlike conduct, in his first match at the conference varsity wrestling tournament. When may he return? Answer: The wrestler misses the rest of this tournament competition, plus the following scheduled varsity meet. If the next meet is the WIAA regional, this wrestler misses that varsity competition.

Question: A player is disqualified, for unsportsmanlike conduct, from the last soccer game of the year. When does this player serve his/her one-game suspension? Answer: The one-game suspension must be served at the next competitive event this player would participate in, no matter what sport that might be. If the athlete involved doesn't go out for any other sport, he/she will miss his/her first soccer game next year. If he/she does go out for another sport he/she would serve his/her suspension in that sport, however, he/she would be required to finish that season, in good standing, or the suspension is not considered to have been served.

Question: A player is ejected, for unsportsmanlike conduct, from a J.V. football game, on Thursday night. There is a varsity game scheduled for Saturday, with the next J.V. game being scheduled for next Thursday night. When does this player serve his suspension? Answer: The suspension must be served by missing the next J.V. level event on the following Thursday night, since the penalty is served the same level of competition as the disqualification.

Question: A player was ejected from a varsity football game, on Saturday, for unsportsmanlike conduct. There is a junior varsity game scheduled for next Thursday, with the next varsity game being next Saturday. When does this athlete serve his suspension? Answer: This suspension must be served at the next varsity contest, which is next Saturday. A suspension received at a higher level cannot be satisfied by missing a lower-level contest.

Question: A player is ejected from a baseball game and, therefore, is required to sit out the next game. The next game goes three innings and is suspended. When can this player return to competition? Answer: A suspended game is not a complete game and the player in question must sit out a complete game before being allowed to return to competition. It is conceivable that this player would sit out the next game on the schedule and then return to finish the suspended game at a later date.

Question: A player is ejected from the second round of WIAA tournament competition. Is this player ineligible for the remainder of the WIAA tournament series? Answer: No. The player in question must sit out the next competitive event after which he/she may return to competition.

Question: A player is ejected in the second inning of a softball game. The game is rained out, an inning later, and becomes a suspended game. The student sits out the next scheduled game and then the suspended game is being resumed. Is she eligible now to participate in the completion of that suspended game? Answer: No. She was ejected from that game and, therefore, has no further eligibility in that game. This is, in the final analysis, the same result as if the game had not been suspended initially.

Question: During last night's game, we had a player ejected for what was called malicious contact, but after reviewing the video following the game, we believe the wrong player was identified by the game official. The penalty was called on, and the ejection was issued to #1 when our video clearly depicts #7 was the player that made the malicious contact. Can we send you our video of that play, and what file format do you need? Answer: School administration may have up to 24 hours to submit one, unedited video of the play where a player was ejected from a contest to identify a misidentified student-athlete to the respective sport director. The review will be conducted by WIAA Executive Staff and any designee. The result of the review is final with no ability to appeal the decision.

Question: We had parents of an ejected athlete come up to us after a game to show us the play that the ejection occurred. They recorded a video on their phone. It's not a great video from the vantage point from the stands, but they claim the video shows the official shouldn't have penalized or ejected the player based on the definition of the NFHS rule. Can this video be reviewed for a wrong interpretation of the rule? Answer: No. There can be no change to the judgement that was rendered by WIAA officials during the contest.
